REPORT HIGHLIGHTS

NEPAL

Many years ago, a very small girl called Rejina, was brought to COSAN's Zenith hostel, looking malnourished and dangerously thin.

INDIA

If there ever was an inspirational story for young girls everywhere, it is Vijayakumari's. She started off in a small, obscure village in South India where her parents were day wage labourers.

BANGLADESH

As we drive our children to school or pop them on the bus each day; it's difficult to imagine the challenges that many parents face in remote and rural parts of Bangladesh.

A NOTE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

Colin Raymond

During this past year we faced challenges with positive transformation, through the drought, bushfires, floods and most recently with the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Asian Aid Organisation Board, management and team remain strong and united as we continue to navigate this ever-changing environment both here in Australia and overseas to deliver the best possible outcomes to vulnerable children, their families and communities in India, Bangladesh and Nepal.

We have been working to become more transparent with our Partners and our supporters and have made significant changes to the frequency of how we communicate. We are deeply grateful to our donors and sponsors, for you have given hope where none existed. You have made God real to many, resulting in changed lives. As Proverbs 14:31 says, "Whoever is kind to the needy honours God." You have brought honour to His name and may He bless you abundantly in return.

Our Adventist schools in India, Bangladesh and Nepal continue to play an important role in not just educating children to reach their God-given potential but also in spreading the gospel. Our aim is to empower each child to become an agent of change in their own communities while also providing an enduring legacy of hope.

In India we have been focusing on how we can work with parents and communities to ensure programs create long-term sustainable incomes for parents of students and create meaningful pathways for the future. In Bangladesh, we have been focussing on programs around the Adventist schools we support, their families and communities. These programs include not just school improvements but also by providing training and sustainable outcomes we have been able to increase the prosperity and wellbeing of whole communities.

Children and adults in Nepal have continued to benefit from the support of our four partners and we plan to increase support in the year to come particularly around women's health and education. Being a Faith-based Organisation and a Supporting Ministry of the Adventist Church we continue to rely on God for His blessings and with your faithful support, we aim to continue to help those children who are most vulnerable and empower their families and communities in our three designated countries.

Being my first message as Chairman, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to my fellow directors, management and team members for their support through this year. We have worked well together to meet the demands and challenges of this year and we thank you for your unreserved commitment. I am optimistic about the new year ahead, as "We have nothing to fear for the future, except as we shall forget the way the Lord has led us." (Believe His Prophets – pg 135).

WHO WE ARE

Children and child sponsorship is part of our DNA. We have always believed that all children and young people have a right to grow, learn and play in a safe and nurturing environment.

They also have a right to receive adequate care and protection from all forms of exploitation, neglect or abuse. At Asian Aid, “It’s all about the kids” because the Bible says children are important to the kingdom of Heaven and should be valued.

Our Vision

All children and their communities are empowered, protected and have full access to their rights.

Our Mission

Asian Aid gives hope by fostering permanent positive change in the lives of disadvantaged children and their communities.

Our Values

At Asian Aid, we:

Believe in Jesus: in His love for others, in His compassion for the poor and in His example of giving.

Believe in people: helping all who need it regardless of their religion, ethnicity, culture or gender, and empowering the poor.

Believe in the rights of the most vulnerable: such as children and women.

Believe in good stewardship: being transparent, accountable, honest and cost- effective in all our dealings.

Believe in accountability and professionalism: being responsible to God, to the people we help, to our supporters, to the Australian Government and to the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Believe in service: opposing poverty and social injustice, condemning all that impoverishes children and denies their potential, and committing to sharing resources with the poor.

Our four partners in Nepal carried on their dedicated work in numerous schools and communities, and we saw first-hand how much children and adults continued to benefit from that support. This has encouraged Asian Aid to put in place plans to increase our support further in the year to come, despite the challenge of dealing with COVID-19. The Women, Girls and Child Rights Project (WoGCRP) implemented by the Centre for Agro-Ecology and Development (CAED) began a new phase in western Nepal, focussing on the prevention of early marriage, maternal and child health, the reduction of harmful practices such as chhaupadi and the promotion of learning and child rights for students. An external expert evaluation of the first three-year phase of the existing project found that the Program had made significant progress in raising awareness among young Nepalese in rural areas of the personal and societal burdens created by a lack of awareness on basic rights.

Rural Nepalese communities are hard to reach, and such progress is significant and an encouraging sign for Asian Aid and our partners for the future.

IN THE 2019-2020 PROJECT YEAR

148 GIRLS attended school during their monthly menstruation

73% OF TEACHERS in project schools demonstrated understanding of child rights by engaging child-friendly behaviour management practices

236 GIRLS out of 375 children (63%) were members of project Child Clubs, and engaged as Peer Educators

193 ADOLESCENT GIRLS received services from six Adolescent Friendly Services (AFS) sites in the project working areas

43 CHILD MARRIAGES were rejected by adolescents and stopped by project Model Couple Campaigners (MCCs)

239 WOMEN were encouraged and made four ante-natal clinic visits through their pregnancy

259 WOMEN delivered their child safely in a birthing centre

9 WOMEN'S NETWORKS and 10 girls' groups were involved in raising community awareness on Sexual Reproductive and Health Rights (SRHR) and issues surrounding Pelvic Organ Prolapse (POP)

32 'CHHAU HUTS' (chhaupadi) were destroyed and/or abandoned in the project working areas

Asian Aid also concluded a one-year project with the Forget Me Not network which assisted students who have lived away from their families for long periods of time to reintegrate into their communities and reunite with their families. Our assistance to 3 Angels Nepal and Community Service Academy Nepal (COSAN) continued to enable students from impoverished backgrounds to benefit from schooling in Pokhara and Kathmandu. Additionally, we completed work in designing and obtaining government approvals for the implementation of the Preventive and Treatment-Based

“Indeed, 2019-2020 was a productive year and one in which the spirit of caring for others was evident.”

Approaches: Pelvic Organ Prolapse and Cervical Cancer (POPCC) Screening Project with COSAN and Scheer Memorial Hospital.

Implementation of this project was due to commence in March 2020 but has been postponed due to the COVID-19 situation in Nepal. However, through the connection which exists between COSAN and Scheer Memorial Hospital, at the end of March 2020, Asian Aid was able to provide assistance to the hospital to purchase Personal Protective Equipment in the national fight against COVID-19.

Indeed, 2019-2020 was a productive year and one in which the spirit of caring for others was evident.

REJINA

STORY OF CHANGE

Many years ago, a very small girl called Rejina, was brought to COSAN's Zenith hostel, looking malnourished and dangerously thin.

Her mother had previously received a uterine prolapse restoration operation through COSAN and knew that COSAN cared for children from poor communities. Her husband was sick, the family had no property and lived in a small, rented shack. She knew she needed to seek help for her daughter. COSAN took Rejina in and with the help of Asian Aid sponsors, helped her through all of her studies up to the tertiary level. Rejina is a dental assistant now and is happily married. In late 2019, she came to COSAN with her husband to say "thank you" and gave gifts of yoghurt and sweets. Both Asian Aid and COSAN are humbled by her expression of gratitude and for the chance to make a transformative difference in her life.

IN THE 2019-2020 PROJECT YEAR

Poor families received sewing machines, commercial rice milling machines and goats as THREE MEANS OF SUSTAINABLE INCOME GENERATION to help lift them out of poverty

SUPPORTED 149 YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN THROUGH tertiary scholarships to graduate in 2020

Provided 43 FAMILIES WITH GOATS OR SHEEP to enable them to increase household income

30 WOMEN IN BANGALORE GRADUATED from our vocational training course in tailoring with skills sufficient to be able to generate income for their families

Primary, secondary and adult students in Chennai and Bangalore benefited enormously from BEFORE AND AFTER-SCHOOL PROGRAMS, while others have been able to enter into regular employment

LOOKING BACK

INDIA

For our work in India, this was a year of challenges and expansion, while steadily continuing to provide opportunities and positive change in the lives of children and adults across all of our programs. Despite the challenges created by COVID-19 in the early part of 2020, we could see significant achievements arising from the efforts of our partner organisations.

VIJAYKUMARI

STORY OF CHANGE

If there ever was an inspirational story for young girls everywhere, it is Vijayakumari's. She started off in a small, obscure village in South India where her parents were day wage labourers.

She belonged to a low caste that has faced centuries of oppression and discrimination, who are dependent on farming for their livelihood and cannot read or write. She overcame those odds to finish school and pursue a Bachelor's Degree. She had barely got into college when she got married. However, she persevered. She went on to complete her Masters in Telugu. By then, she and her husband had settled into a quiet life in Gudem Madhavaram. In August 2011, she became the Principal of Adventist Gudem Madhavaram School which had just 30 students. The school did not have any recognition or registration at that time. The school did not have the necessary infrastructure or toilets, no compound wall and only one teacher. The Education Officer had given an order to close the school but Vijayakumari worked with the Section office to make the necessary improvements to enable the school to survive, with Asian Aid's help. Asian Aid has helped the school grow and thrive by supporting teacher's salaries, enabling the professional development of teaching staff, making infrastructure improvements and providing equipment. Vijaykumari says, "This project has made the school a fundamental part of the community now."

“Asian Aid has helped the school grow and thrive by supporting teacher's salaries, enabling the professional development of teaching staff”

The 12 months of work supporting our partners in India has been productive and seen real, appreciable difference in the lives of children and adults. All of India has, however, been impacted by coronavirus and starting in March 2020, Asian Aid has been working closely with our partners to provide food relief to children and families impacted by the measures implemented by the government to limit the spread of the virus.

This is the third year of the pilot Child Focused School Development (CFSD) project in Bangladesh, run across three Adventist village schools in Southern Bangladesh.

The project has continued to help provide quality education for disadvantaged children and to improve the livelihoods and wellbeing of families in the surrounding communities. By providing training and sustainable economic opportunities, this program is not only transforming the lives of individuals but increasing the prosperity and wellbeing of whole communities.

“This program is not only transforming the lives of individuals but increasing the prosperity and wellbeing of whole communities.”

Through the establishment of ‘Child Clubs’ within the schools, children are learning to be generous and to care for others. A prime example of this is when one Child Club gave some of the money (500 Taka – approximately AUD10) earmarked for their activities to a widow to help repair her cow shed that was destroyed in Cyclone Bulbul.

Additionally, Maisie

Fook School had significant renovations including a security wall, play equipment, new electrical, as well as extensions to the current classrooms.

IN THE 2019-2020 PROJECT YEAR

Teaching staff and social workers from the three project village schools received TEACHERS' RESOURCE PACKS (including bag, stationery, book sets, etc.)

Three schools received EDUCATIONAL SCHOOL PACKS (including a range of teaching materials, white boards and markers, bulletin boards and educational charts)

THREE CLASSROOMS were fitted with lights, fans and decorated with educational materials

27 CHILD CLUB MEETINGS were held across the three schools

78 COMMUNITY COURTYARD MEETINGS were conducted, with students' parents and community leaders present

Mid-day MEAL PROGRAMS were established and continue to be run across the three village schools

Second round of 500 FRUIT TREES were distributed to students' families and community members surrounding the schools to help them earn a sustainable income

Awareness programs to 'STOP EARLY CHILDHOOD MARRIAGE' were run by students from each project school

Three SAFE DRINKING WATER systems were developed in each project school

A VEGETABLE GARDEN was established in one project school and agricultural training conducted

250 people participated in three annual BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION EVENTS, and families received a gift of a large umbrella to help in the rainy season

SIX SANITATION LATRINES were improved

The first stage of the WATER FOR HEALTH AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT (WHED) Project in Northern Bangladesh was successfully completed. As a result, two large WATER PUMPS were installed

660 children and teachers were provided with SAFE DRINKING WATER

A second bore was completed to provide sufficient WATER FOR THE SCHOOL and surrounding farmlands

BANGLADESH

The two large water pumps have helped us provide clean drinking water to the project school and the surrounding community. Prior to this project, the farmers grew one rice crop per year, depending on the annual rainfall during the monsoon. Now with the new, reliable water supply, farmers can produce two rice crops per year and also diversify their crop production. They are able to grow vegetables such as potatoes, carrots, tomatoes, cauliflowers, eggplants and onions. This means greater food security. Vegetables are in higher demand in the market and so are more profitable than rice. This means greater financial security. Currently the vegetables being grown in the school grounds are being used to feed the 61 children remaining at the school during the lockdown due to COVID-19.

The second phase of the WHED Project due to start shortly will bring additional transformational changes to this community through livelihood training for women, teaching farmers about crop diversity, and raising awareness on women and child rights. In response to COVID-19 and the lockdown in Bangladesh, Asian Aid has been working with our partner organisation to provide food packages and to distribute welfare cheques to help sustain families through this challenging time.

STORY OF CHANGE

DIBOSH

As we drive our children to school or pop them on the bus each day; it's difficult to imagine the challenges that many parents face just getting their child to school on a daily basis in remote and rural parts of Bangladesh, India and Nepal.

Children like little six-year-old Dibosh Madhu. Most days Dibosh hops into his parent's canoe and helps his mum row and push through the water reeds so he can get to school. Situated in marshland in a low-lying village in southern Bangladesh, he lives with his parents in a shack made of tin, bamboo and leaves. Since they live surrounded by such uncultivable land, his family has very little means to earn an income. His father goes door-to-door selling bangles made of different types of snails. However, during the monsoon season, even that source of income dries up.

We first met Dibosh's family in 2018 during a parents meeting in the village. His parents wanted to send Dibosh to our school as they felt it would mean better, holistic education for their son. They were also very impressed with the different awareness sessions that their son could be part of that address some urgent issues facing their community - child marriage, dengue, the environment, child abuse etc. This year when Dibosh started school and despite the conditions, his parents go that extra mile to ensure he is in school everyday in the confidence that it will change his future.
