OUR MISSION

To enable children, their families and communities to reach their God-given potential, through child-focused programs that foster sustainable positive change.

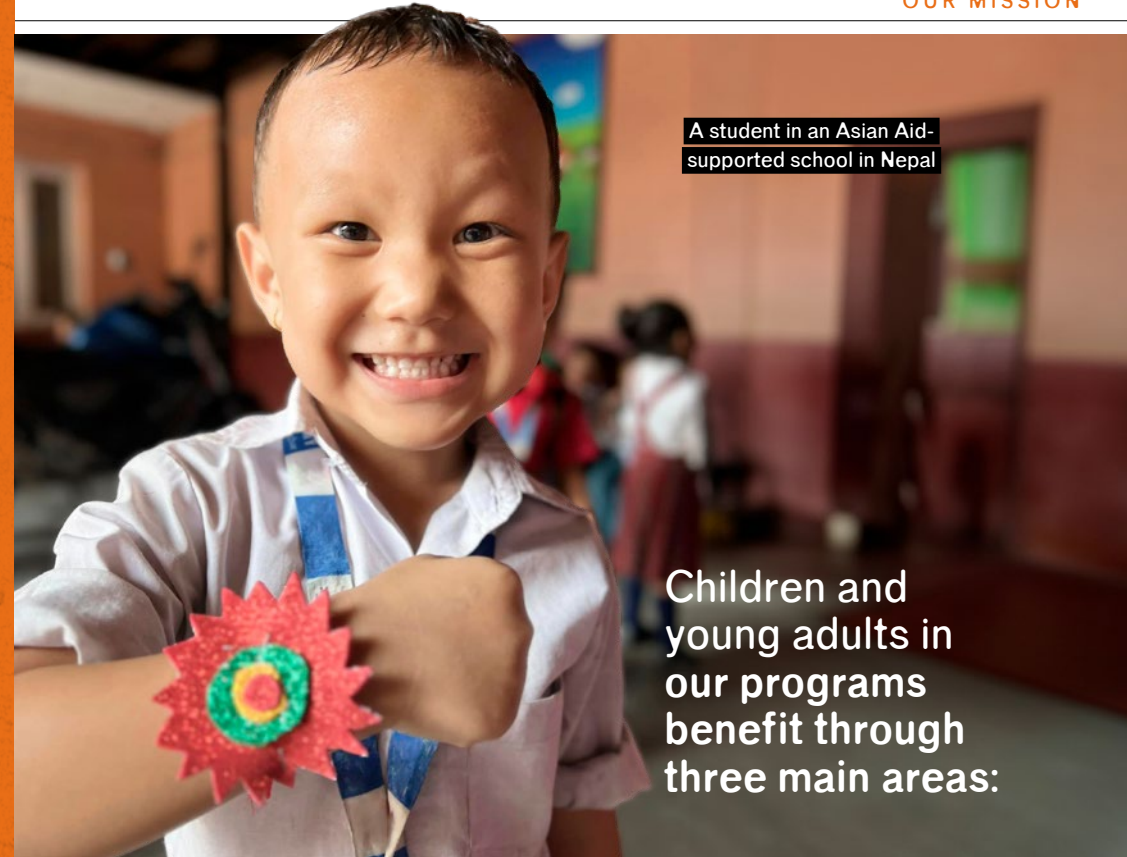

OUR VISION

All children, their families and their communities are empowered, protected and have full access to their rights.

As a Christian organisation committed to championing the God-given potential of every child since 1966, Asian Aid believes that every child – loved, gifted and unique – matters immensely to God. That's why, together with our donors and partners, we enable disadvantaged children to gain quality education for a better future. We provide free healthcare and health education to children and their families for better quality of life. We empower parents, teachers and communities with knowledge, skills and resources so they can best care for their children. We advocate for children's right to a safe, secure, and happy childhood so that every child can grow into a valued member of society. And we partner with like-minded people whose passion, commitment and generosity make hope-giving possible for each child we support.

DEAR FRIENDS AND SUPPORTERS

It is with heartfelt gratitude that I share a message on behalf of Asian Aid's Board of Directors – gratitude to God for His leading and blessings; to our dedicated, passionate and capable team for their hard work and commitment; to our in-country partners for their tireless efforts; and to you, our supporters and volunteers, for your generosity, commitment and loyalty.

As we reflect on this past year, one thing remains clear: the unwavering belief we share at Asian Aid that every child deserves to be safe and healthy, to go to school and to live in families and within communities that are empowered to nurture their little ones. And, ultimately, that every child can reach their God-given potential and have hope.

Thanks to you, Asian Aid has continued to make a lasting impact in the lives of children, their families and communities across India, Nepal and Bangladesh, while also beginning to support children and families in Australia through funds raised from the HOPE Op Shop in Wauchope. Your support has helped us empower young lives every single day, while also ensuring the children in our program understand their rights and are at lower risk of child marriage, child labour, trafficking and exploitation.

This year, we witnessed countless moments of hope.

From a child learning to read their first book to a young adult finishing their tertiary studies. From a community receiving free healthcare and education to a grandmother breaking free from the pain and shame of uterine prolapse. From a teacher training on how to better support their students to an adult learning to write and sign their name for the first time. From parents starting a home business to a community group involved in self-help activities. From a girl abandoning a menstrual hut to go to school every day to a child activist learning to become a leader in their community... Behind every moment of hope is a network of caring people like you who believe that we are required "to act justly, to love mercy and to walk humbly with our God" (Micah 6:8) as we become the hands and feet of Jesus to the world.

May we continue to bring God's hope, healing and transformation to the little ones who need it the most. As we look ahead, we are excited about the opportunities to expand our programs, strengthen our partnerships, and amplify the voices of the young people we serve.

Thank you for walking alongside us in this mission. Together, we are building a brighter future—one child at a time.

With gratitude and blessings,

- Colin

Education

In the remote hills of Nepal, the Praja tribe is one of the poorest communities in the country. The Prajas, who live on the high mountains and caves, eat leaves and roots they forage from the forest.

Some from the community have migrated to the lower part of the mountain, breaking stones and cutting wood to make ends meet. Formal education is a distant dream for this tribe. But two children - Rashmi and Safal - have overcome these dire circumstances.

Rashmi arrived at our hostel school as a little one, abandoned after the death of her father and her mother's remarriage. She had no home and no support. Yet, Rashmi embraced learning with quiet strength. Her consistent efforts and the stability provided by the school helped her flourish.

Similarly, Safal came to the school as a baby over 12 years ago. Poverty shaped his early life, yet he consistently rose above his circumstances.

His teachers praise not only Safal's academic excellence, but also his humility, sincerity, and determination.

Today, both Rashmi and Safal have just completed Year 10 and are waiting for their results with hope and pride. Their journeys from poverty and exclusion to new opportunities show that education can rewrite a child's story.

To everyone who has supported these children along the way - thank you. Your kindness has transformed their lives now and for the future.

“Her consistent efforts and the stability provided by the school helped her flourish.”

EDUCATION IN NUMBERS

2,839

CHILDREN SPONSORED IN SCHOOL AND AFTER-SCHOOL TUITION

Child sponsorship helps children start and stay in school, receive extra academic support, and build life and employment skills. It also strengthens their schools, families, and communities.

CHILDREN ENGAGED IN CHILD- FOCUSED SCHOOL PROJECTS

Child-focused projects in India, Bangladesh, and Nepal help children stay in school, learn life skills and their rights, and grow in confidence through clubs, meals, and community activities. Caregivers are supported with jobs and health services, while girls and women gain access to reproductive healthcare.

SCHOOLS SUPPORTED THROUGH TUITION AND RESOURCE PROGRAMS

To ensure long-term academic development especially for schools in remote settings, we provide textbooks, digital learning resources, teacher training, and infrastructure improvements. These initiatives aim to enhance educational access and equity, ensuring that students from vulnerable communities have the tools, materials, and financial support necessary to succeed.

TEACHERS TRAINED IN CHILD-FRIENDLY TEACHING METHODS

Teachers are equipped with modern, inclusive teaching strategies. The training emphasises empathy, participation, and child-centered learning.

CHILDREN PROVIDED WITH EMERGENCY EDUCATIONAL SUPPORT

This one-off support helps children who would otherwise have to drop out of school continue, ensuring they finish school despite unforeseen personal or community problems.

589

CHILDREN ENGAGED IN MUSIC, DRAMA, AND ARTS PROGRAMS

These programs give children a platform to express themselves, with the aim to boost confidence and nurture talents beyond the classroom.

126

CHILDREN ENGAGED IN DIGITAL LITERACY PROGRAMS

Digital literacy programs teach children how to safely navigate the internet, use common software tools, and develop basic coding and typing skills. These programs bridge the digital divide, especially for children in remote areas, and prepare them for future academic and career opportunities.

45

COMPLAINTS LODGED AGAINST CHILD MARRIAGE

Children and their families reported threats or cases of child marriage to authorities, demonstrating increased awareness about risk.

1,439

CHILDREN ENGAGED IN COMMUNITY RIGHTS AWARENESS EVENTS

Interactive workshops, awareness campaigns, and school-based activities help children learn about protection from abuse, gender equality, and participation in decision-making. They are encouraged to express their views, ask questions, and share their concerns with teachers, caregivers, and local leaders—helping them grow in confidence, responsibility, and self-advocacy.

For many children in our program, school lunch may be the most reliable and nutritious meal of the day.

ARTHY AND HER FAMILY

In a small village in the southeastern part of Bangladesh lives a bright young girl named Arthy, who, despite growing up in a family that struggles to meet daily needs, is determined to rise above her circumstances.

Her family - like many others in the area - lives hand to mouth through farming and fishing. For years, they lacked basic sanitation. Without a private toilet, they had to use unsafe or shared alternatives, which posed health risks and created emotional stress — especially for a young girl like Arthy.

That changed when, as part of a health initiative, our partner team visited homes, spoke to families, and identified those in greatest need in the community. Arthy's family was one of four selected to receive a new toilet.

The toilet was a simple structure, but to Arthy, it meant safety, dignity, and peace of mind. No longer would she have to endure the embarrassment of using someone else's facilities or face the danger of going outside alone.

Arthy's mother, a member of our self-help group, proudly shared how this small change brought a new sense of hope into their home. What was once a silent burden has now become a shared triumph.

Livelihood

Divya, 31, has always been determined to improve her family's life.

With a young daughter in school and a husband earning just ₹15,000/month (AUS$270) as a salesman, putting food on the table was a constant challenge. Motivated to contribute financially and gain independence, Divya looked for courses in her community. That is when a friend told her about Asian Aid's free three-month tailoring program. It was perfect for her! From the beginning, Divya was one of the most dedicated and talented trainees. She quickly mastered skills like paper cutting, blouse stitching, and creating children's garments. Her progress was so impressive that she began earning an income even before completing the course. With confidence in her new skills, Divya invested ₹12,000 in a sewing machine and began stitching blouses from home.

Today, Divya earns a steady income and plays an active role in supporting her family. She is an entrepreneur, a skilled tailor, and a proud example of how skill development can transform lives.

When mums like Divya are equipped with the right skills and support, they do not just change their own lives—they also uplift their entire families.

VOLUNTEERING BRINGS ME JOY

ROSALIE

Rosalie Needham has been a valued part of the HOPE Op Shop family from the very beginning.

Living in a quiet village an hour away, Rosalie makes the trip regularly. She is semi-retired, married to her husband Carl, is a proud mum of five adult children and grandmother to seven grandkids - her beloved "Cherrybimbles," as she affectionately calls them.

Rosalie's life has been filled with beauty and heartbreak. As an interior designer, she has a gift for creating beauty. But she has also endured deep sorrow, including the loss of her first husband and, later, her beloved son Shayne, who passed away at just 26. "Losing a child is a pain that never fully leaves a mother's heart," she says.

Through all of life's seasons, Rosalie's faith in Jesus has been her anchor. "He's the reason I keep going," she says. "He gave me hope, and the strength to believe I'll see my son again one day."

It is that same hope that drives her to help others - and what first inspired her to volunteer at the HOPE Op Shop. When her daughter, who works at Asian Aid, told her about plans for the shop, Rosalie jumped at the chance to be involved.

Volunteering brings her deep joy. "I love sharing kindness, love, and a listening ear with the people who come through our doors. Some just need someone to talk to. Others are looking for something special - and I get to help in a creative and meaningful way."

Every shift is different. Whether she is tidying up, sorting donations, setting up displays, or simply creating a welcoming space, Rosalie finds joy in making beauty from what is available.

She also loves catching up with friends during their shared shifts. "We have a cuppa, do something good, and laugh together - it's the perfect day out."

What keeps her coming back? "Knowing what we do here really helps people - especially children in tough situations. That's what Jesus did, and that's what I want to do too."

To anyone considering volunteering, Rosalie has a heartfelt message: "What are you waiting for? There's something truly special about helping others. It fills your heart in ways you can't explain. You might think you're giving - but you'll find you're the one being blessed."

MONITORING AND EVALUATION

Asian Aid is committed to improving development effectiveness across all our programs. Through our work in India, Nepal and Bangladesh, Asian Aid's child-rights programming approach enables us to measure and evaluate the effectiveness of our programs and projects, ensuring the child remains at the centre of all we do. Asian Aid's impact is measured against our four Target Outcome Areas – Survival, Protection, Development and Participation – with programs designed to improve the wellbeing of children.

In this reporting year we conducted three end-of-project evaluations and one mid-term evaluation, covering multiple project sites and locations. The learnings from these evaluations have been used to improve the quality and effectiveness of current projects and were used to inform new project designs and sustainable exit strategies. Asian Aid continues to provide training to our local partner organisations to build their capacity and effectiveness. Within the reporting year this included a focus on Informed Consent and Data Management.
