

Paul Bennetts: Asian Aid Ambassador Profile

Tenambit, NSW – Hunter Valley region
Currently self-employed in the building industry.
Married to Megan.

For Paul, hope is witnessing disadvantaged children, young adults and their families and communities receive opportunities to improve their overall health and lifestyle.

“Education is vital in providing more choices and a brighter future for children young adults and their families,” says Paul. Also the director of Asian Aid’s Health and Education Lifestyle Project in Indonesia, Paul is passionate about humanitarian work and uses his skills to “contribute and help the good work that Asian Aid is already doing.”

He hopes to visit other Asian Aid projects to gain a broader understanding and knowledge of Asian Aid’s work, in order to better advocate for those who don’t have a voice. Paul and his wife Megan have been involved with Asian Aid since the mid-1990s, and enjoy educating and informing others about existing needs in Asia.

Thank you Paul for your amazing support of Asian Aid.
